

VERY IMPORTANT: READ CAREFULLY INSTRUCTIONS

Dear Users,

We would like to present here a few instructions for filling out the Export Control forms necessary with each request for software, originating from the RSICC, released to the NEA Databank within the cooperative arrangement with the US DOE, signed on 10 April 2006.

All three of the Export Control forms are obligatory; thus, without each of them correctly filled out, no software request will be processed.

- The first page (1/3) must be filled out by the end user of the software. The end user's information must be filled out completely; in particular, any and all citizenships that the end user may hold must be mentioned, as well as the end user's country of residence. Also the intentions for use of the software must be concisely described in English.
- The second page (2/3) likewise must be filled out by the end user, notably with the end user's signature only appearing at the bottom of the form.
- The third page (3/3) has two portions. The top portion must be filled out and once again signed by the end user. The bottom portion is to be filled out and signed by the liaison officer. In the case where an establishment has no nominated liaison officer, the end user's project supervisor may fill out the bottom portion and sign.

If the liaison officer of an establishment wishes to request a software package(s) for him or herself, that liaison officer must fill out all three pages, including the two portions of page 3.

If the liaison officer wishes to request a software package(s) for one or more end users in his or her establishment, the liaison officer must have each end user fill out all three forms. And then the liaison officer must fill out the bottom portion of page 3 before sending the request(s) to the NEA Databank.

Please note that these software packages are export-controlled under U. S. government regulations and issued under a single user license for a single site. They are for the registered user only. Access by anyone other than that specific user is strictly prohibited. If other colleagues are interested in using the software, each one must register and request his/her own copy. Copies sent by the NEA Databank cannot be shared.

Return the completed 3 forms by post, fax or e-mail to:
